

the art and science of smart patch testing™

NA87: DI alpha tocopherol

Patient Information

Your patch test result indicates that you have a contact allergy to dl alpha tocopherol. This contact allergy may cause your skin to react when it is exposed to this substance although it may take several days for the symptoms to appear. Typical symptoms include redness, swelling, itching, and fluid-filled blisters.

Where is dl alpha tocopherol found?

DI alpha tocopherol is a synthetic form of vitamin E and is used for its antioxidant properties. It is found in many personal care products such as skin creams and lotions to promote skin healing and reduce scarring after injuries such as burns. It is not clear if individuals allergic to dl alpha tocopherol will cross react with related derivatives.

How can you avoid contact with dl alpha tocopherol?

Avoid products that list any of the following names in the ingredients:

- Vitamin E acetate dl-form
- (+-)-alpha-Tocopherol acetate
- CCRIS 6054
- DL-alpha-Tocopherol acetate
- DL-alpha-Tocopheryl acetate
- 2H-1-Benzopyran-6-ol, 3,4-dihydro-2,5,7,8-tetramethyl-2-((4R,8R)-4,8,12-

- Ephynal
- Syntopherol acetate
- all-rac-alpha-Tocopheryl acetate
- dl-alpha-Tocopheryl acetate trimethyltridecyl)-, acetate, (2R)-rel-
