Q: Who will I be scheduled with?

A: Dr. Hopp’s schedule is generally reserved for skin cancer surgeries which, because of their critical nature, take priority. It is usually easier to schedule initial/non-surgical appointments with one of his associate medical providers because of how far out his schedule is booked. When we book a non-surgical appointment with Dr. Hopp, there’s a chance the patient may get bumped and rescheduled with an associate if there’s a cancer surgery that needs to be done right away.

Q: What is an ARNP and a PA-C?

A: ARNP stands for Advanced Registered Nurse Practitioner. ARNP’s are highly educated and can perform many of the same procedures as an M.D.: Writing prescriptions, interpreting labs and performing minor surgical procedures. They are required to participate in ongoing education and are actually licensed to open their own practice in the state of Washington. ARNP’s earn their state license after successfully passing their board certifications and are not required to take their boards again.

PA-C stands for Physician Assistant-Certified. PA-C’s are also highly educated and can perform many of the same procedures as an M.D.: Writing prescriptions, interpreting labs and performing minor surgical procedures. They are also required to participate in ongoing education; however, they must practice medicine as delegated by and with the supervision of a physician. PA-C’s earn their state license after successfully passing their board certifications and are required to retake their board certification exam every six years to keep their national certification.

If you have any additional questions that were not addressed here, or you are interested in scheduling an appointment, please do not hesitate to contact our office!
